

(RE)THINKING BORDERS

in Central America, the Caribbean, and the Gulf Coast of the Southern United States

SEPARATION, CIRCULATION, AND IDENTIFICATION AT AN AMERICAN CROSSROADS

Join scholars from around the world for an interactive virtual series as we explore questions of construction and deconstruction of material and symbolical borders. Panelists will focus on the crossroads of three Americas: Central America, the Caribbean, and the Gulf coast of the United States.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 2021

Drawing Borders: A Region at the Crossroads Between North and South?

10 a.m. - noon CST (Austin)
17 p.m. - 19 p.m. CEST (Paris)

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 2021

Borders and (Hyper)Mobility
at an American Crossroads: Toward New Territories?

10 a.m. - noon CST (Austin)
17 p.m. - 19 p.m. CEST (Paris)

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 2021

Drawing the Line: Representing Identities from the Borders of the Americas

10 a.m. - noon CST (Austin)
16 p.m. - 18 p.m. CEST (Paris)

The series will be directly translated in English and Spanish.

To register and receive the Zoom details, visit:
utx.global/borders

This virtual seminar series is hosted by the Texas, Mexico, and Caribbean centers of the Institut des Amériques (IdA), and their host institutions, Texas Global, the Centro Francés de Estudios Mexicanos y Centroamericanos (CEMCA), and the Fundación Global Democracia y Desarrollo (FUNGLODE). The IdA fosters interdisciplinary research of the Americas between UT Austin and France, encourages exchange between European and American specialists, and contributes to the construction of a Euro-American hub of higher education and research.